REAVIS TURNS OVER BOOKS AND MONEY

PEREMPTORY WRIT SUSTAINED BUT CONTEMPT CASE NOT PUSHED—COURT NEWS.

Following a hearing before Judge Knowles of the mandamus suit Frank A. Reavis turned over the books, records and cash of the county treasurer's office to W. T. Bell Wednesday afternoon. D. W. Sheahan, attorney for Mr. Reavis, would not state Wednesday evening whether the mandamus case would be appealed or whether other proceedings would be started to test Mr. Bell's eligibility.

Mr. Bell is now holding but one office, that of county treasurer. His resignation as postmaster of Enterprise has been accepted, the department having notified his bondsmen to that effect and requesting them to place someone in charge until a new postmaster is appointed. The bondsmen, W. W. White, J. M. Blakely and L. Berland, met Tuesday and requested Mr. Bell to remain in charge of the office until his successor is appointed.

The arguments on the demurrer and motion to recall the peremptory writ of mandamus occupied nearly all of Tuesday, counsel for Bell being C. H. Finn and C. R. Eberhard, and Mr. Sheahan appearing for Reavis. The court overruled and denied both demurrer and motion. Defendant's demurrer to affidavit in the suit for contempt was overruled Wednesday forenoon, and in the afternoon that case was tried, Mr. Reavis being accused of contempt because he did not obey the peremptory writ. The court found for the defendant, the latter agreeing to obey the writ, which was done the same afternoon.

J. B. SEIBERT'S BROTHER MURDERED AT REPUBLIC

Rol Seibert, brother of J. B. Seibert of Enterprise, was shot and killed near Republic, Wash., Saturday by a half-breed Indian named Charles Phillips. The news was wired to Mr. Seibert here who left the same day for Republic. The murdered man is well known in Enterprise from having resided here last winter for a time, and serving for a short time as city marshal.

The murderer is an ex-convict, an expert gunman and a terror to the neighborhood where he lived. He and Seibert had an altercation at Republic on July 4, when Seibert twice knocked Phillips down. Saturday Seibert was driving along the San Poi river, accompanied by two other men and a woman, Phillips appeared and said he wished to settle old scores. Seibert grabbed his Winchester and jumped to the ground, but Phillips rode around the wagon and shot Seibert in the small of the back.

A reward of $250 is offered for the capture of the desperado and a sheriff's posse is pursuing him.

STORY OF AUDRAN'S CHARMING OPERA

GRAND MUSICAL TREAT AT ENTERPRISE NEXT WEEK—CAST FOR OLIVETTE.

"Olivette," Audran's charming opera, is different from most comic operas in that it has a plot, and a good one.

In the first act of "Olivette," the people of the village of Perpignan are excited over the approaching marriage of the Seneschal's only daughter, Olivette, with an old sea captain, DeMerimac. The young lady has just arrived from a convent where she had fallen in love with a young officer, Valentine, nephew of De Merimac. The young Countess of Rousillon has, however, fallen in love herself with the young soldier, and comes to Perpignan to see him. In the house of the Seneschal, the Countess has her solitude invaded by Valentine, who believes he is climbing the balcony of Olivette. Meanwhile the uncle, whose suit does not prosper, with Olivette, writes the Countess a letter demanding the young lady's hand. Valentine contrives to pass himself off for the real De Merimac, and accordingly marries Olivette at the request of the Countess.

The second act opens with a ball given by the Countess in honor of the wedding, and Valentine finds that he has to impersonate not only his uncle, but himself, by constant change of dress. The real De Merimac returns and is greeted by every body as the happy bridegroom. Finally his perplexity is resolved by the appearance of Valentine as the old man, and the result of the explanation is that De Merimac resolves to take the bride that Valentine has married in his name. A conspiracy is formed, and Olivette gets rid, for the moment of her elderly bridegroom. The love of the Countess for Valentine upsets the calculations of Olivette, for the sovereign lady of Rousillon announces her intention of marrying the loyal soldier who had quelled the conspiracy. As a last resource, Valentine, at the instigation of Olivette, joins the plot and the Countess is ordered to be sent out of the kingdom.

The third and last act describes the partial success of the plot and the imprisonment of the Countess on the "Cormorant," the ship commanded by DeMerimac. Olivette and her husband, disguised as sailors, seek a vessel to take them away. Valentine is detected and seized, Olivette manages to set the Countess free and assume her dress, her own place being taken by her maid, Veloutine, whom the near-sighted Duke courts. De Merimac returns, and is horrified to hear the Duke tell Valentine of his courtship of Olivette. Both nephew and uncle disown the bride until the return of the Countess and the unveiling of Olivette. Valentine at last is united to Olivette, the Countess accepts the Duc Des Iles, and De Merimac is advised to follow the example of the Doge of Venice and "marry the sea."

Rehearsals for "Olivette" under the leadership of Prof. Boyer have progressed to a point where the management is justified in announcing its production on the evenings of Friday and Saturday, August 7 and 8. The chorus will be large and well trained, the cast of principals very greatly strengthened as compared with the cast used in the "Pirates of Penzance," the costumes—the picturesque costumes of Italy—will be the best which the Chicago Costume company can furnish. Altogether, the management feels that it is justified in predicting the most successful production ever attempted in Wallowa county. The following is the cast: Captain de Merimac, of the Man-O-War "Cormorant," Mr. Streeter. Valentine, officer of the Rousillon Guards, his nephew, Mr. Boyer. Duc Des Iles, cousin and heir presumptive to the Countess, Mr. Pratt. Coquillicot, his foster brother and henchman, Mr. Miller. Marvejol, Seneschal to the Countess and Maire of Perpignan, Dr. Ault. Olivette, daughter of the Seneschal Marvejol, Miss Bryan.

Bathfield, Countess of Rousillon, in love with Valentine, Miss Browning. Veloutine, the Seneschal's housekeeper, Miss Corkins. Moustique, cabin boy of the "Cormorant," Miss DePue. Inasmuch as inquiries are already being received for tickets, the public is urged to purchase as soon after Monday next, when they are put on sale, as possible.

Zumwalt Postmaster. Henry Zumwalt has been re-appointed postmaster of Zumwalt and was in Enterprise Monday having his bond made out and signed.

Successful Sunday School Convention

Twenty-Third Annual Meeting Held at Wallowa—List of New Officers.

The Wallowa Sunday School association held its 23rd annual convention at Wallowa last week. To those who are not familiar with the object and extent of this organization let it be said that it is composed of all the Sunday schools of every denomination in Wallowa county. A convention is held each year for the purpose of exchanging ideas on Sunday school work and to learn and discuss new plans for general betterment of the schools. For the past two years Rev. C. A. Phipps has been in attendance at the conventions and has been of aid in bringing fresh, up-to-date ideas on all phases of Sunday school work. He is the state field secretary employed by the state Sunday school association of Oregon.

All county associations are members of the state association and are entitled to send delegates to the annual state convention. The counties help to support the state convention and Wallowa county has the distinction of having paid the amount pledged for state work in full, in fact has paid all but $7 of the 1907 pledge, thus paying in advance.

The convention just closed was most enthusiastic, and attendance was good, considering the farmers busy season is just at hand. Reports were received from every school in the county and all but three sent delegates. The keynote of the convention was for better organization, better trained teachers, a wider knowledge of the bible and a greater effort to make the Sunday schools of this county a stronger agency for good. The following officers were elected:

- President, H. B. Davidhizer.
- First vice president, James Kay.
- Second vice president, Mrs. H. B. Davidhizer.
- Third vice president, Mrs. Christopher Johnson.
- Fourth vice president, F. S. Johnson.
- Secretary, Mrs. A. F. Poley.
- Treasurer, Mrs. Oren Wagner.
- Superintendent of Home Department, Mrs. John McDonald.
- Supt. of Temperance, Miss Prudence Eddlemon.

MARVIN ROUNDING UP THE RUNAWAYS

SHERIFF GOES TO WALLA WALLA FOR KINNEY—GEORGE TUCKER SURRENDERS.

Sheriff Edgar Marvin left Tuesday morning for Walla Walla to secure A. W. Kinney, the man who was convicted at the May term of court of participating in a riot, and was sentenced to three years in the penitentiary. Right after he was sentenced, Kinney was allowed to go out on the street in custody of two brothers, and he jumped on a horse and made good his escape. The Walla Walla police telephoned Monday they had a man in custody answering Kinney's description, and Sheriff Marvin left at once for that city. H. C. Cramer went along to identify Kinney. If the man held is Kinney he will be taken direct from Walla Walla to the penitentiary at Salem, as Sheriff Marvin took along a mittimus for that purpose.

Tucker Gives Himself Up. George Tucker, long wanted for participating in the same riot for which O. W. Kinney was sentenced to the penitentiary, gave himself up Tuesday morning to Deputy Sheriff Crow and was later allowed to go under $1000 bonds. Tucker went to Crow's room in the hotel early in the morning and stated his errand. He said he was tired of dodging and hiding and had had no luck since he ran away.

Two others who are under indictment for the same offense, Tom Tucker and Norfleet Bogun, are still at large.

Stole Surveyor's Chain. Jess Hammack and Ben Gaskill of Lostine were arrested Wednesday by Acting Constable McAnulty on a charge of stealing a surveyor's chain belonging to County Surveyor Long. Justice A. C. Smith fined each of them $25 which they paid. Surveyor Long missed the chain from his outfit while working near Lostine, and came to Enterprise and swore out a search warrant. Sheriff Marvin found the chain in Hammack's room.
